

STARS & STYLES PORTRAITS OF PARIS

There are certain times in certain places when particular faces come to the fore. Those times and those faces demand to be documented. Over the period of one month more than 100 people slipped through our doors to pose in front of the flash of our original 70s Polaroid camera – intimate moments, one-on-one conversations, the camera revealing the amazing strength that each individual projects. Designers, musicians, artists, photographers, writers, thinkers, people who make up our world - establishment and avant-garde, artistic community and fashionable society, old friends, new friends and friends of friends.

The upshot is a very special document, a social commentary of the beautiful minds and faces that make up our "scene" – a loose network of personalities immersed in their own worlds, centralized yet fragmented by their work, satellites circling each other, the occasional correlation occurring, people who love-in, live in and create one of the world's most inspiring cities. Photography by Ezra Petronio
